| VIII.     | UN Registry definition with additional details: 1. All of the small arms and light weapons listed in the export section fall under category ML1, ML 2 or ML901 of the New Zealand Strategic Goods List, which is available online at the New Zealand Export Controls website: https://www.mfat.govt.nz/en/trade/trading-weapons-and-controlled-chemicals/. 2. In 2019, New Zealand began a comprehensive review of its core piece of firearms legislation, the Arms Act 1983. The purpose of the law change was to remove semi-automatic weapons from circulation and use by the general population in New Zealand. The amended Arms Act introduced a prohibition effective from 11 April 2019 on all military-style semi-automatic weapons and assault rifles; most other semi-automatic weapons; those weapons' associated parts and accessories, in particular parts that could be used to convert a lower-powered firearm into a semi-automatic; and banned high-capacity magazines. It also introduced an amnesty period and a buy-back scheme for these newly prohibited weapons, which ceased on 20 December 2019. Most semi-automatic weapons are now prohibited in New Zealand, except rimfire rifles of .22 calibre or less and shotguns with a limited ammunition capacity (five or fewer magazine capacity). These lesser capacity firearms are commonly used by New Zealand's farming, hunting and recreational communities. A very small number of licence holders are able to retain prohibited firearms and prohibited magazines under special pest control endorsements on their licence. These have to be reapplied for every 30 months. In 2020 New Zealand Parliament passed the Arms Legislation Act. This was the second phase of the legislative reform programme designed to strengthen the legislative framework and improve the overall functioning of the Act to deliver its purpose of safe possession and use of firearms and having controls over who can possess firearms. The Act makes clear that the possession and use of firearms is a privilege and those who import, manufacture, supply, sell, and possess or use firearms have a responsibility to act in the interests of personal and public safety. Most changes took effect either immediately or after 6 months, such as the ability for inspection of the security arrangements for all firearms held by licence holders, inspection of vehicles used to transport firearms, and the ability of Police to temporarily suspend a firearms licence and immediately seize of the licence holder's firearms pending revocation. The licensing system has been strengthened to make it harder for firearms to get into the wrong hands. The fit and proper assessment test has been made transparent by codifying the matters to be considered. It has also been made explicit that certain serious convictions would immediately disqualify a person from holding a firearms licence. Provision is made for the issue of improvement notices and failure to comply with these is grounds for suspension pending revocation. The list of prohibited firearms was expanded by the Act to include: centrefire pump action rifles with detachable magazine or with fixed magazines |

|  | holding more than 10 cartridges; larger semi-automatic pistols (pistol carbines); and greater controls were placed over the possession of pistol carbine conversion kits. Some changes took effect on 24 June 2021. These changes required new regulations to support their implementation and give transparency and legitimacy to the conditions placed upon firearms and dealer’s licences; and to provide for the new activities that will now require a dealer’s licence. A further set of changes took effect on 24 June 2022 which relate to giving Police regulatory oversight of the activities of all shooting clubs and shooting ranges. Previously this oversight was limited to pistol clubs and certified pistol ranges. On 24 June 2023 provision is made for key transactions such as the sale, hire and transfer of all firearms to be recorded in a central registry. This will be populated over five years. If a licence holder is not involved in any of these transactions within the five years, they will be required to enter all unregistered firearms that they hold into the registry in accordance with regulations. 2. Imports of Small Arms &amp; Light Weapons. For imports only, automatic weapons includes “Prohibited rifles, PCP Rifle/Shotgun, Assault &amp; Battle rifles”. This is due to the way in which NZ Police records its data on imports. 3. Medium and General Purpose Machine Guns: The New Zealand Defence Force considers a 7.62mm MMG or GPMG as fitting within the parameters of the Light Machine Gun section. Any machine gun over 0.5” calibre would be a Heavy Machine Gun and likely mounted. 4. Small arms figures include exports made with a temporary export permit. These permits are issued for goods which are leaving New Zealand and are intended to be returned to the same owner in New Zealand. Common scenarios include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Taking weapons overseas for a competition or for recreational use;</li> <li>• Weapons sent overseas for repair;</li> <li>• A salesperson taking product samples for viewing by potential clients abroad or to a trade exhibition.</li> </ul> 5. Previously certain categories of temporary exports which were exempt from the requirement to obtain a permit were also exempt from notifying the export. From March 2016 it has been a requirement that weapons exported without the need for a permit must be notified. During the period there were 128. 6. All firearms imported into New Zealand must have an import permit issued by New Zealand Police, including those that are returning after having been exported temporarily. |

|    | Shotguns: New Zealand has a strong hunting and target shooting tradition, making shotguns a significant percentage of New Zealand’s total small arms imports and exports. A report conveying a full picture of New Zealand firearms would therefore be incomplete without the inclusion of this type of firearm in New Zealand’s import and export statistics. Reporting of these items serves to advance the object and purpose of the Arms Trade Treaty. |
