Development of Elements of a Draft Five-Year Strategy for the Arms Trade Treaty

Call for Proposals

Annex II- Reference documents

This document provides a list of selected ATT Conference documents and independent research and civil society analyses that informed the development of the Call for Proposals. It is intended as a reference resource for respondents, highlighting prior discussions, conclusions and lessons learned that may assist in formulating proposals that build on existing ATT work, avoid duplication and support strategic prioritization.

PART I – Official ATT Conference and Subsidiary Body Documents

The official ATT Conference and subsidiary body documents summarized in this section capture adopted decisions, agreed workplans and established practices that shape the current operation of the Treaty and its institutional framework. They provide essential context on what has already been discussed, agreed and implemented within the ATT process, including priorities identified by States Parties and the evolving configuration of ATT meetings and Working Groups.

These documents are included to assist respondents in situating their proposals within the existing ATT landscape, taking due account of prior discussions and conclusions, and identifying where strategic prioritization, sequencing or consolidation could add value. They are not intended to prescribe outcomes or constrain proposals, but to support coherence, continuity and informed forward-looking inputs into the development of elements of the draft five-year strategy.

PART II – Research and Civil Society Analyses

The research and civil society publications summarized below provide independent analytical assessments of the Arms Trade Treaty's first decade of operation. They do not prescribe outcomes for States Parties, but identify recurring challenges, policy options and strategic considerations that may assist respondents in formulating proposals that build on existing ATT work, avoid duplication and support prioritization, sequencing and impact-oriented implementation in line with the object and purpose of the Treaty.
